Flowers in the Air: Monarchs in Mexico is a first-hand account by Tavia Cathcart Brown, pollinator and plant expert, and Executive Director of Creasey Mahan Nature Preserve. She'll describe her visits in 2019 and 2016 to see millions of monarch butterflies in the Sierra Madre Mountains of central Mexico.

You are invited to enjoy this FREE presentation, where Tavia will share her first-hand adventures with remarkable photos and videos.

You'll learn –

-  About monarch life cycles
-  Their amazing 2,000-mile migration to the Biosphere Reserves
-  Favorite plants to attract butterflies to your garden
-  An introduction to home butterfly rearing

FREE! Refreshments and door prizes provided, thanks to these generous sponsors:
